PLP and Puget Sound Partners Student Internships

The PLP and Puget Sound Partners in International Health programs are pleased to be able to support up to 6 student interns to work with you in your agencies, organizations or programs during the upcoming year. Student interns will receive a stipend to cover their roundtrip airfare, visas, required immunizations and living expenses. The typical duration of student internships is approximately 2 months, although it can be substantially longer if additional matching funding can be secured.

Student interns will be allocated to Fellows' sites on a competitive basis, so please consider submitting a Request For Proposals (RFP). To be considered as a host site for a student intern, please create a brief (no more than one page) proposal no later than November 30, including the following information:

--name and location of the organization and brief description of the specific program/activity that the student will be working on;
--approximate dates of internship;
--job description for student intern;
--desired or required skills and qualifications;
--how the internship will be mutually beneficial for the student as well as your organization.

Internship sites will be selected in early December. Interns may be selected as early as the following January and can start their internships soon thereafter, though internships typically take place during July-September.

Preference will be given to proposals that include some matching support from the organization (e.g., housing provided).
